The general aim of this partnership is to increase and empower the mutual understanding and dialogue among different cultures by improving the knowledge of people about cultural heritages and helping them find innovative ways to access to knowledge of cultural heritages since it is an essential factor in the identity of each country and a privileged means of facilitating mutual comprehension among countries.

This partnership includes the international mobility of the trainers working on tangible and intangible cultural issues and learners in order to:

- observe the role and task of the adult education providers on how cultural resources are used to generate employment opportunities and income, to reduce poverty, and to achieve cultural and environmental conservation;
- observe innovative approaches aiming at preservation, conservation and introduction of tangible and intangible heritages;
- enhance intercultural dialogue, exchange and share experiences in the field;
- observe the methods and strategies used in different educational institutions to raise public awareness;
- compare the national and local regulations;
- develop and share common instruments that can be used in training courses;
- disseminate the results and outputs at local, national and European level by organizing meetings, publications and a webpage.

ADHER
ADOPT YOUR HERITAGE

Grundtvig Mobility Partnership project

ADHER project supported by European Union in Lifelong Learning program has been started in August 2009 and ends at July 2011. The partners are spread over Europe: Italy, Greece, Romania, Slovenia, Turkey, and Lithuania having valuable experience in adult education and adopting cultural heritage. The examples of heritage items to be used in education were selected in all countries. The coordinating institution is the Adult Education Centre in Samsun (Turkey).
